MONEY MARKET. Saturday, Dec. 28-6 P. M. The Stock Market was very flat to-day—Stonington tell off † per cent; Pennsylvania 5's, †; Ohio 6's, †, with large sales; Mohawk, †; North American Trust, †; Norwich and Worcester, Long Island, Farmers' Loan, and Morris Canal, closed firm at yesterdaya's prices; Erio Reilroad improved per cent; Canton Co 1; Delaware and 'dulson, i It will be seen that Pennsylvania o's have acclined to-day, and that sales on time are made at lower prices than those now ruling. Considerable excitement was created in Well street, by the announcecitement was created in Well street, by the announce-ment that five or six houses extensi: Iy engaged in the produce business, had stopped payment, and that several of the banks of this city had become aeriously sufferers. It appears that the banks have a system of receiving It appears that the banks have a system of receiving checks of houses in good credit, on deposit from their customers; and in this way the banks receiving the checks of these insolvent houses, become large losers. These houses being connected, used each others checks in making deposits, and the makers and depositors becoming bankrupt, the loss falls upon the banks. Bank stock, in these latter days, is dangerous property, and subject at any moment to depreciation. Fancy stocks are bad enough, but speculators can make money out of themnot so with bank stock; the prejudices of capitalists and the difficulties under which these fastitutions labor, serve to destroy their credit, and reduce the value of their stocks. It is almost impossible for the banks of this city to make a dividend of seven per cent, even in good statons.

The Boston and Providence Railroad Company have

The Doston and Providence Rairona Company nave declared a dividend of three and a half per cent for six months, payable on the 6th of January. We annex a statement giving the several kinds and quantities of merchandise cleared at the Collector's of-fice, Wrightsville, which passed down the Susquehanne and Tide Water Canal, in the year 1814 :--

The movement of produce and merchandise on this canal, the past season, has not been very great. This canal passes through a section of country capable of pro-ducing a surplus of articles greater than included in this ducing a surplus of articles greater than included in this table; whereas the amounts transported were, no doubt, in a great measure the productions of sections of country west of the termination of this canal. The products of Penusylvania, alone, cannot be estimated, or the quantity forwarded to market from that State distinguished. The census of 1840 gives the following quantities of agricultural p educts reised in Pennsylvania in 1839.

The products of 1844 must, of course, with the natural increase, be much greater than in 1839, as given in the above table; but the increase in the quantities reaching tide water, does not seem to have been so large as the growth of the western country would warrant us in anticipating. The productions of Ohio and other Western States, intended for the markets on the Atlantic, generally are shipped as direct as possible for this port, and take the are shipped as direct as possible for this port, and take the route through the lakes. The alvantages of this market are sufficient to induce the forwarders at the west to swait the opening of our canals before making their shipments. It has been supposed that the completion of several works of internal imprevement through l'ennsylvania and the western States would injure the public works of this State, and draw away from this market sufficient business to affect our prosperity; but the result of the past year's operations has destroyed these fears, and created more confidence than previously entertained in the resources of our internal improvements and advanthe resources of our internal improvements and advantages of this market to the whole western country. We are convinced that the completion of any work in the Western States, facilitating the transportation of produce-will tend to the benefit of this city and State.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26, 1844 Innexation of Texas and Occupation of Oregon— Rescinding the 39th Rule—Great excitement—Important Retrenchment Movement—Indignant Re-fusal to Adjourn Over—Law against Betting on Elections—Mexican Indemnity—All amounting to nothing.

James G. Bennett, Esq.:-

Speculation aside, when you are informed that a oint resolution annexing Texas, and a bill occupyng Oregon-or all that portion worth occupyingwill pass both Houses of Congress during the ensuing month, and perhaps during the first two weeks of the month. A prominent member of the House had intended at the opening of the session this morning, to offer a resolution to rescind the 39th rule, the effect of which would have created far more excitement than the last movement of John Quincy Adams in rescinding the 25th. Assoon as it was ascertained, numerous members waited upon him, and implored him to delay his proposition until after New Year's day, as its effects would not strike that public attention during the present excitement of business. With much persuasion he assented, and the 39th rule will still remain, as it has since the commencement of the session, a dead letter on the records of the House, as follows:—

"While the "peaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, one shall waik out of or across the House; nor, in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall entertain private discourse; nor white a member is speaking shall pass between him and the chair.—Every member shall remain uncovered during the session of the House. No member or other person shall visit or remain by the clerk's table while the syes and noes are calling, or ballots are counting."

After this rule is rescinded, as it probably will be, an amendment will be offered to the following effect:—

"During the time the Speaker is putting a question, each and every wanters the than the last movement of John Quincy Adams in tacles to distinguish the members on his right and left. No member shall be required to occupy his own seat while he can find another vacant."

This substitute-will pass by nearly a unanimous vote, judging from the opinions of members, as has been evinced since the opinions of members, as has been evinced since the opinions of the session.

You will perceive by the "interesting" proceedings of the House, that the morning was nearly consumed in a discussion whether Congress should employ an extra assistant clerk for a few weeks to perform the duties of one who is on the eve of the grave with consumption, produced by his ardoous labors in the services imposed on him—and whether the public treasury would not be robbed and plundered, if this poor, sick, dying clerk was paid his salary for six weeks, while he was tottering to his last long home. Prominent in favor of this important measure of retrenchment and reform—(that occupied the time of 223 members of Congress for nearly one day, at an expense to the nation of $1784.) stood Cave Johuson, of Teanessee, a candidate for Secretary of the Treasury, and George S. Houston, of Alabama, a candidate for re-election to the seat he now occupies. These reformers were defeated, however, and the dying cierk will receive sufficient from his recent employers to keep the vision of hope still beckoning him on till to-morrow.

A resolution was introduced to enquire into the expediency of passing a law to prevent betting on elections for President and Congress, which was nearly voted out of the Hall notwithstanding the Chaplain received his $6 per diem for a holy prayer against fraud, dishonesty, and corruption, delivered at the commencement of the day's proceedings.

A proposition was introduced by somebody calling upon the Mexicans to pay up their indemnity; but objections being urged sgainst its reception as out of order, and a desire to debate it, as it looked warlike, it was laid over. For a day's description of proceedings smounting to nothing, see regular head of House of F

Report of Decision of Supreme Court in the Case of Doir, for a Habeas Corpus on a Writ of Error.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Treadwell, we are enabled to transmit you the decision of the Supreme Court in the Dorr case, as delivered this

Through the courtesy of Mr. Treadwell, we are enabled to transmit yeu the decision of the Superime Court in the Dorr case, as delivered this morning by Justice McLean. We guess it is the earliest report of this decision formshed for publication. We may here remark, that Mr. T. insists that the friends of Dorr cannot fail of effecting the ultimate liberation of the real Governor, by the voice of the people of Rhode Island.

Exparte Application of T. W. Dorr for a luvit of Habeas Corpus.—Thos W Dorr was convicted before the Suprema Gourt of Rhode Island, at March term, 1844, of treason against the State of Rhode Island, at March term, 1844, of treason against the State of Rhode Island, at March term, 1844, of treason against the State of Rhode Island, and sentenced to the State Prison for life. And it appears from the sufficient of Francis C. Treadwell, a counseller at law of this confidence, that personal soccass to Dorr in his confidence that the supplication of remove the record of his court power to issue a writ of Habeas Corpus in this case? This is a preliminary question and must be first considered. The original juisidiction of this court is limited by the constitution to cases affecting ambasadors, other public ministers, and consuls, and where a State is a party. It appellative jurisdiction is regulated by acts of Congress. Under the common law it can exercise no jurisdiction. As this case cannot be brought under the head of original jurisdiction, it sutatinable, it must be under the appellate power. The 14th section of the Judiciary actol 1759 provides that the cours of the United States shall have power to issue writs of scier faciar, habeas corpus, and all other writs not specially provided for by statute, which may be necessary. For the exercise of their respective jurisdictions, and agreeable to the principles and urages of law. And that either of the Justices of the Supreme Court, as well as Judges of the District Fourts, shall have power to grant writs of habeas corpus shall in occase extend to pr
